WIDOW BECKNER'S SPEECH.

A Very Able Political Address at the Courthouse Saturday.

Judge William M. Beckner of Winchester, ex-Democratic Congressman from the Tenth District, spoke for the hour at the courthouse Saturday at 1 p. m.

The courthouse was literally crowded. The enthusiasm was great and the speaker telling for the cause he represented.

Never has this very able man shown to better advantage, and his clear, lucid style of oratory, together with the simplicity of purpose which animates him, convinced many voters who possibly were undecided.

It is a pleasant recollection to recall that Judge Beckner was once a citizen of our city, having taught school here years ago.

If the sign-board of prosperity need another spike to hold it up to him that one was driven by Judge Beckner here last Saturday.

The only cure is to use the only medicine that will cure them, and the patient will be cured in a few days. It is called "The Cure" and is sold in bottles. It costs 10 cents. J. W. Wood & Son.

REPUBLICANS!

THEY PASS A FAIR ELECTION LAW IN THE KENTUCKY SENATE.

The radicals of the Senate met their Waterloo Saturday. The victory, of course, belongs to the Conservative Democrats and Republicans of that body. It came so unexpectedly to the extremists that they hardly knew yet just how it happened. They had a great surprise in store for the conservatives, but when they woke up the extremists found the surprise had worked as a boomerang.

By a vote of 21 to 17 the old County Judge Law, with several amendments, was passed.

The amendments make it a perfectly fair measure and as good as the bill passed by the Senate last week.

It was substituted for the House Compromise Bill, which had also been amended so as to be a good measure.

The vote on this measure was about to be taken when Senator Thomas, who made a grandstand play the other day about introducing the old Election Law, took the floor and offered it as a substitute to the bill under consideration.

It was a plan of the extremists to put the Republicans on record as opposed to the old law.

The conservatives, however, were not taken by surprise and Senator William H. Cox at once offered several amendments to the bill, all of which passed.

The amendments provide for the alternation of the Sheriffs and Clerks of the Precincts; the appointment by the County Judge of two election officers recommended by the Executive Committee of the two leading parties; and prevent the removal of officers five days before an election.

There are several minor amendments. The amendment making it mandatory upon the County Judge to appoint two election officers recommended by the Executive Committee takes away the power formerly vested in that official.

Through it there can be no frauds in the mountains and yet the extremists who have catered to the lawlessness in this section voted against it.

Senator Thomas, who fell in the trap, claims he was not treated fairly by other extremists. He says he introduced the substitute at the instance of Senators Allen, Ferguson, Johnson and others. He claims he was surprised they did not stand by him.

It was largely due to Senator Cox's astuteness that the radicals were trapped so neatly. Senator Cox has practically done nothing but study election laws since the extra session was convened. As a result he knew just what to expect.

After Senator Thomas' grandstand play on the old law the other day Senator Cox prepared the amendments which he introduced. He had them ready for such an emergency.

The leading Democrats of both branches, it appears, will use their efforts to defeat the substitute when it is offered in the House today, and the chances are they will be successful, in which event the Democrats must shoulder the responsibility for failure to pass a new law, and for the $5,000 expense entailed on the state by the extra session.

Do you want a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible, if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all our countries with success to cure throat and lung troubles.
